COURSE SYNOPSIS

There are plenty of creative smartphone owners out there who already have the tools, but do you have the skills to make an effective smartphone video?

Learn how to produce compelling, fast turnaround short video content using only a smartphone without worrying about traditional production constraints.

In this workshop, students will learn the basics of documentary-production, filmmaking from the perspectives of storytelling and how to transform their smartphone into an amazing tool of video production.

Students will work in small groups to produce an original short clip which they can keep, at the end of the workshop.
